GOVERNORS OF MIDWEST ASK FOR WATERWAY

Stress Urgent Need for Early Completion of St. Lawrence Project

POINT OUT BENEFITS

Executives Give Views at Middle West Conference Today in Chicago

Chicago — (P) — Middle west governors joined today in a plea for the early completion of the St. Lawrence waterway and the "liberation" of their states from the "burden of distant transportation."

Democrat, Republican and Farmer-Laborite, from the Dakotas, Minnesota, Montana, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio, they came to raise their voices in a harmonious chorus asking that congress speed up a treaty with Canada and pass quickly subsequent legislation that the long anticipated channel might be finished to make ocean ports of midwestern cities.

The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater association arranged the conference and set up as the topic for discussion "the transportation tragedy of the mid-continent in attempting to market its product over a rail radius, averaging 1,000 miles longer than any nation with which it competes."

Said George F. Schaefer, governor of North Dakota: "The advent of the St. Lawrence seaway has been too long delayed. Ever since the completion of the Panama canal, a generation ago, the interior economic development of America has been sadly out of balance. There was placed upon agriculture in the great mid-continent section a disadvantage beyond its ability to carry and still compete profitably in the markets of the world."

Wants Treaty Ratified Prompt ratification of a treaty between the United States and Canada was urged by Governor Schaefer, and he said construction on the final unit of the St. Lawrence waterways projects could begin within a year.

"It would liberate twenty American states and several Canadian provinces from those burdens of distant transportation which have long stood as an unsurmountable barrier to the economic progress of this great inland empire," he said.

In behalf of the people of Ohio, Gov. George White said he joined with the neighboring states in supporting the early consummation to the project, he described as "a fitting sequel" to the policy of peace Canada and the United States had pursued for 100 years.

"Much of this titanic project is already accomplished," said Governor White. "The completion depends upon the successful negotiation of a treaty between the United States and Canada. No great national interest on either side stands in the way of this agreement. . . . The immediate undertaking of the work will help to lift the depression now. Its completion will prolong its benefits for generations to come."

Lists Advantages

The benefits to be reaped from the complete waterway by midwest industry was sketched by Gov. Harry G. Leslie of Indiana. The Calumet area on the southern tip of Lake Michigan is the "industrial center of America," Governor Leslie said, and the benefits of increased activity in that area would spread throughout the neighboring states.

Illinois' chief executive, Louis L. Emmerson, saw the waterways as a means of benefiting the American farmer. $50,000 per year, he said, and farmers and statisticians have estimated that the waterway would save about 10 cents a bushel on the cost of transporting grain, he said, and if only one-half of the amount should accrue to the producers, the benefit would be $10,000,000 a year.

JOHN H. BANKHEAD

QUESTION RIGHT OF BANKHEAD TO SEAT IN SENATE

Committee Reports Disregard for Law and Fraud in Alabama Election

Washington — (P) — A move to deny a seat to Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, when he presents himself at the senate door Monday, was under consideration today by Republican leaders.

Washington — (P) — On findings of universal disregard for election laws, and circumstances indicating "some fraud," Chairman Hastings of the senate election sub-committee today formally questioned the validity of the Alabama election which sent John H. Bankhead to the senate.

The Republican senior from Delaware laid a billable factual report, without recommendations, before his committee as it gathered to permit counsel for Bankhead and for his defeated opponent, Thomas Heflin to argue disputed points.

After receiving the report, the committee which was set up to consider the contest brought against Bankhead's election by Heflin, adjourned without action to await the arrival of one of its members, Senator Bratton, Democrat, New Mexico.

Hastings called another meeting for tomorrow afternoon and said he wanted to hear arguments from opposing counsel on evidence that Bankhead spent $11,531.55 in campaign expenditures though a law sets a limitation of $10,000.

Bankhead and Heflin were seated across from each other at the committee table as Hastings, a Delaware Republican, submitted that there were violations of law in every young place in Alabama during the 1930 election.

Representative Linton, Maryland Democrat, the leader of the house wet bloc, claims 150 votes for repeal in the house, the largest number since the advent of prohibition.

At the same time Representative Rainey of Illinois, prospective Democratic leader, and Representative Snell of New York, the Republican nominee for speaker, said the new house would face the issue directly.

Representative Linton, Maryland Democrat, the leader of the house wet bloc, claims 150 votes for repeal in the house, the largest number since the advent of prohibition.

It has not been decided what proposal the wets will press for a vote. A repeat amendment would require a two-thirds vote of both houses and ratification by three-fourths of the states. A number of anti-prohibitionists favor a referendum on repeal.

Heflin said the report was "fine." He issued this statement:

"I believe that the sub-committee of the committee on privileges and elections of the senate will report to the full committee:

"First—That the primary plan adopted by the state Democratic committee of Alabama under which Mr. Bankhead claims to have obtained his nomination was in direct violation of the primary law of the state and was null and void. A repeat amendment would require a two-thirds vote of both houses and ratification by three-fourths of the states. A number of anti-prohibitionists favor a referendum on repeal.

"Second—That the plan adopted by the committee to keep me out of the primary as a candidate for the senate to succeed myself violated the primary law of Alabama.

"Third—That the ruling of the chairman of the state Democratic committee that Democrats permitted to participate in the primary as voters could not write the name of

"Prince of Wales Is SENT TO BED BY CHILL

London — (P) — The Prince of Wales is suffering from a chill, with symptoms of a malignant nature, it was officially stated at York house this morning.

His condition is not regarded in any way serious, the announcement said, but he plans to remain in bed today. The Prince was struck with a chill yesterday and his engagements for today were canceled.

The Prince, however, was not seriously ill, and his doctors are working on his condition.

London — (P) — The Prince of Wales has been laughing at us for years, but now we have enough votes to wipe the smiles off their faces. We are going to put the wet and dry on record in the coming session.

SAYS TARIFF BARRIERS
BRING ECONOMIC "WAR"

Cincinnati, Ohio — (P) — Setting up of tariff barriers by nations, each trying to be self-sufficient has created a state of economic "war," New York City Mayor La Guardia said last night.

Baker told the Commonwealth and Commercial clubs that since the principles of nationalism were set up at the Versailles conference and the "economic equilibrium of Europe disturbed, a war of tariffs and commercial competition has been in progress."

Warden Aderhold gave the population as "over 800." The institution originally was built to accommodate 1,000 prisoners but a wing was added 14 years ago to increase its capacity to 1,300.

Without the consent or acquiescence of the United States, no world conflict could be undertaken, he said, and stated that in his opinion "the policy of the United States is the greatest instrument for creating and maintaining a peaceful order."

FAVOR INQUIRY INTO
U. S. COST OF LIVING

Washington — (P) — Senators La Follette and Sheppard think it might be a good idea to find out how much it costs to live.

The Wisconsin Progressive and Texas Democrat agreed on this yesterday when they were told by J. Frederick Dewhurst, of the commerce department that available data on the subject was 12 years old.

Senator Sheppard said at the manufacturers' subcommittee hearing that the survey would cost about $2,000,000 but both he and La Follette thought it would be worth it.

Almost every other source of trouble has been disposed of by the Democrats, and the cause will find but one candidate for each major house post.

FINLAND'S DRY LAW ALSO PUT UNDER ATTACK

Parliament Considers Nationwide Referendum on Prohibition Statutes

Helsingfors, Finland.—Opposition from the Socialists and the Unionists is expected when the government's measure authorizing a nationwide referendum on prohibition is presented in parliament this evening.

The Socialists have supported prohibition throughout the 12 years it has been in effect. The Unionists contend that parliament has ample authority to deal with the issue without referring it to the people.

The government's bill, published today, asserts that in the past 12 years prohibition has not produced the changes in the nation's habits which were expected but that, on the contrary, the law has been openly and persistently violated.

Also, the statement accompanying the measure asserts that elimination of the liquor tax has transferred a heavy burden upon the citizens whose taxes have been increased to make up for the liquor loss. As a consequence the difficulty of balancing income and expenditure has increased and no new source of national income is available.

The government, bearing in mind that prohibition was enacted with the support of a majority of the people, has had no opportunity since then to ascertain whether public opinion has undergone a change, the statement said, and therefore deems it necessary that the people be consulted before any alteration in the law is made.

Opponents of prohibition have dwelt at length upon what they describe as the rise of a lawless element which derives a substantial and untaxed income from illicit liquor traffic. The evils which followed in the train of prohibition, they assert, have overshadowed the increased measure of sobriety which has been found to have resulted in some parts of the country.

MAKE SETTLEMENT IN DAMAGE SUIT

Parents of Boy Agree to Accept $380—Had Sought $2,000

A settlement of $380 was reached in circuit court yesterday afternoon in the case of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McGuire, Appleton, versus Mrs. Tillie Schabo, Roy Schabo and Schabo and Sons. The settlement was effected by stipulation which provides that if payment is not made in 39 days that the plaintiff may secure judgment against the defendant. The settlement was approved by Judge Edgar V. Werner.

The McGuires asked damages of $2,000 for the death of their son, Eugene, five, who was fatally injured in May, 1931, when he was crushed beneath the frame of a truck. The truck was standing in the yards of the Schabo company when it fell and struck the boy. The complaint charged that the negligence of the defendants was responsible for the accident. A jury was drawn and testimony started Tuesday afternoon.

ARTIST SZIGETI MAKES NO PLEA FOR POPULARITY

Violinist Fails to Show Human Side of Character in Heavy Program

BY NELLIE CHAMBERLAIN

Joseph Szigeti, the artist, appeared before Appleton Wednesday night at Lawrence Memorial chapel, and the artist he remained throughout his difficult and uncompromisingly classical program which reached its peak in Mozart's fourth concerto in D major.

Making no plea for popularity either by spectacular tactics or in his choice of selections, Szigeti held staunchly to his ideals of playing only the best in music, and sacrificed his own personality to the expression of his art.

Not once did he show the human side of his character. He never smiled, his face remained as expressionless in the first of his great dramatic numbers as when he was acknowledging applause, and he did not speak a word either before, during or at the close of his program.

He was only the medium through which the compositions of the immortals were transmitted to his listeners. His complete self-effacement was perhaps the most striking characteristic of the man.

Complete Mastery

The program was, doubtless, chosen to show the artist's complete mastery of the violin, not to suit the taste of his audience. The most pleasing part of the entire presentation was for the untrained listener, the third group which included "Fontaine de Arathuse" by Szymanowski, a charming number which echoed the tinkling of falling water, and the splashing of the fountain. So vivid was the tone picture, that one could almost see the crystal drops as they rose and fell. The piano accompaniment to this number was particularly beautiful as played by Nikita de Magaloff, the lovely cadences providing a perfect background for the mellow tones of the violin.

On Nov. 9, 1915, he was married to Miss Zita Williamson, also of Freedom. Eight children were born to them, all of whom survive.

Mr. Garvey was a member of the Kaukauna council, Knights of Columbus, Catholic Order of Foresters, and the Holy Name society of St. Nicholas church.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Bridget Garvey, Freedom; four daughters, Eileen, Bonita May, Catherine and Jean Ann, all at home; four sons, James F., St. Nazarius seminary; William, Patrick Robert, and Benedict, at home; five brothers, Hugh, Joseph, C. J. and C. M. Garvey, Appleton, and John, Freeborn; and five sisters, Sister M. Ignace, St. Mary parish, Menasha; Sister Mary James, Beverly Hills Academy of Our Lady, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. A. L. Ellender, Appleton; Mrs. John Jansen, Little Chute, and Mrs. Bernard Shouten, Kaukauna.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 Saturday morning at the home in Freedom and at 10 o'clock at St. Nicholas church, with the Rev. Father Van Dyke officiating. Burial will be in the parish cemetery. The body was to be taken to the Schabos' Funeral home this afternoon.

Zephyr by Hubay, which was also included in the last group, was another appealing number. The instrument reflected the daintiness of a vagrant breeze as it danced across the meadows, sighed through the forest, whispered around houses, and flurried up and down the streets. This descriptive number gave Szigeti ample opportunity to display his lightness of touch, precision of bowing, and flexibility of fingering.

Displays Technique

The fingering and bowing in "Siciliano et Rigaudon" by Francoeur-Kreisler were noteworthy, and the artist showed admirable technique in his execution of this number. Nigun, from "Baal Shem" by Bloch was a dramatic number characterized by full, even tones.

The Mozart concerto, played for his second group, was done with sureness of touch and left the audience without a doubt as to the artist's complete mastery of his instrument. The number was full of cadences, and Szigeti coaxed harmonies from his violin with the ease and assurance of the master. His wrists were fascinating in their flexibility. They seemed to weave and sway with each cadence, yet one got the impression of hidden strength and superb control.

Szigeti opened his program with "La Folia" by Corelli, a number which showed a touch as light as thistledown and a blending of tones which gave the impression of one continuous stream of exquisite sound. This long and difficult selection set pace for the entire program, which was the heaviest that Appleton has been given for some time.

Appleton Corps Also Helped
2,049 Transients With Food and Clothing

That the slogan, "not a soul shall starve or shiver this winter," is being carried out by the Salvation Army corps in this city, is evidenced by the November report of Captain H. L. Servais.

Army headquarters was the mecca for needy families of the city and transients during November. The corps aided 109 families last month by distributing food and clothing and offering night lodging. Approximately 650 garments and pairs of shoes were distributed to the 454 persons in those families last month.

One of the largest parties in Appleton on Thanksgiving day was sponsored by the Salvation Army when 321 persons were served there. Waiters of the corps started serving at noon, and were still rustling meals at supper time. The menu for towns people consisted of chicken, mashed potatoes, vegetables and pumpkin pies. Transients were served almost the same kind of food except that lamb chops replaced chicken.

To End a Cough
In a Hurry, Mix
This at Home

To quickly end stubborn coughs due to colds, it is important to sooth the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system in warding off the trouble.

For this purpose, here is a home-made medicine that can do anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, saves money, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without once you have used it.

This simple remedy has three necessities. First, it loosens the mucus-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the most acute coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

November Much Warmer Than Same Month In 1930

Appleton and vicinity last month experienced the warmest November in years, according to George Allanson, Menasha local tender and official weather vender for this district.

Madison and cities in that part of the state hailed last month the warmest November since 1869, and of times in this territory have almost the same story to tell.

Although November last year was exceptionally mild for this climate, mean temperatures recorded here last month were higher than last year, according to Mr. Allanson. The mean morning temperature last month was 36 degrees above zero, compared to 30 degrees above in the same period of 1930.

The mean noon temperature in November this year was 50.5 degrees above zero, compared to 48 degrees above in the same month of 1930. The lowest morning temperature recorded here last month was 15 degrees above zero Nov. 26, while a year ago the low morning temperature was two degrees above zero on Nov. 27. The lowest noon temperature last month was 26 degrees, compared to 20 above on Nov. 26, compared to, Wiley.

Expect 300 Farmers Will Attend Dairy Meeting At Courthouse

COOPERATIVE ORGANIZATION TO BE PLANNED

Committee Will Put Several Questions Before Conference Saturday

The question of Appleton milk producers organizing an independent cooperative marketing group will be put before a mass meeting of dairy farmers at the courthouse here at 1:30 Saturday afternoon. The matter will be brought before the session by a special committee, headed by Phil Bixby, which has been investigating the field of milk marketing cooperatives.

This special committee, which has been at work most of the summer, has visited several marketing groups in the state and made investigations. Its report to the mass meeting here Saturday also will include several other questions. Among these are:

Whether contracts signed by farmers for the proposed local of the Wisconsin Pure Milk Products Cooperative association be ignored.

Whether a plan for checking tests be devised as soon as organization of an independent unit is complete.

Last spring the farmers at a mass meeting decided to organize a local of the Pure Milk Products cooperative and many farmers signed contracts with the group in preparation for the organization. Later, however, this organization work was halted and the special committee was appointed to make a complete investigation of the cooperative marketing system throughout the state.

About 300 farmers are expected to attend the meeting Saturday.

MODEL HELD IN ATTACK ON CALIFORNIA ARTIST

San Francisco—(P)—Augusta Ball Johnson, 25, attractive artist's model, was charged today with assault with a deadly weapon on the basis of her confession, police said, that she slashed the throat of Robert A. Lockwood, Los Angeles architectural artist, in his Telegraph Hill studio here.

Authorities related she said she cut the artist with a warmed razor blade because he lied to her.

Lockwood, recovering in a hospital, told authorities he had attempted suicide and when confronted with the girl's asserted confession said he would not prosecute her.

The girl, who said she has a husband, Lloyd Johnson, and two children at Culver City, Calif., told police she had been intending to kill Lockwood for three days. She said she warmed the razor blade so the "operation" would be less painful.

At the hospital Lockwood said the model was just a friend who was out of work and that he had tried to aid her.

Attendants at the Mohrovia hospital, where his wife is confined by tuberculosis, said her condition is so serious that she had not been informed of the affair.

BADGER FARMERS TO ATTEND CONVENTION

Milwaukee—(P)—A delegation of Wisconsin farmers will attend the annual national convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Chicago, Dec. 7-9, instructed to support the federation's policy favoring incorporation of the equalization fee principle in the agricultural marketing act, state bureau officers have announced.

The delegation will be headed by Joseph Schwartz, Spring Green president of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau, and Clifford Hupper, Madison secretary.

The state federation went on record at the state convention at Wisconsin Rapids last month "expressing our faith in the principle of the agricultural marketing act and the policies of the federal farm board in carrying this out, and we ask congress and the president of the United States that it be strengthened and broadened by the addition of the equalization fee."

Nearly 500 farmers from the nation are expected to attend the convention. Agricultural problems to be discussed will include over-production and surplus crop control, tax reduction, financial credit for farmers, transportation, state aid of the dollar and a revised land utilization policy.

REDUCE SALARIES OF KENOSHA-CO OFFICIALS

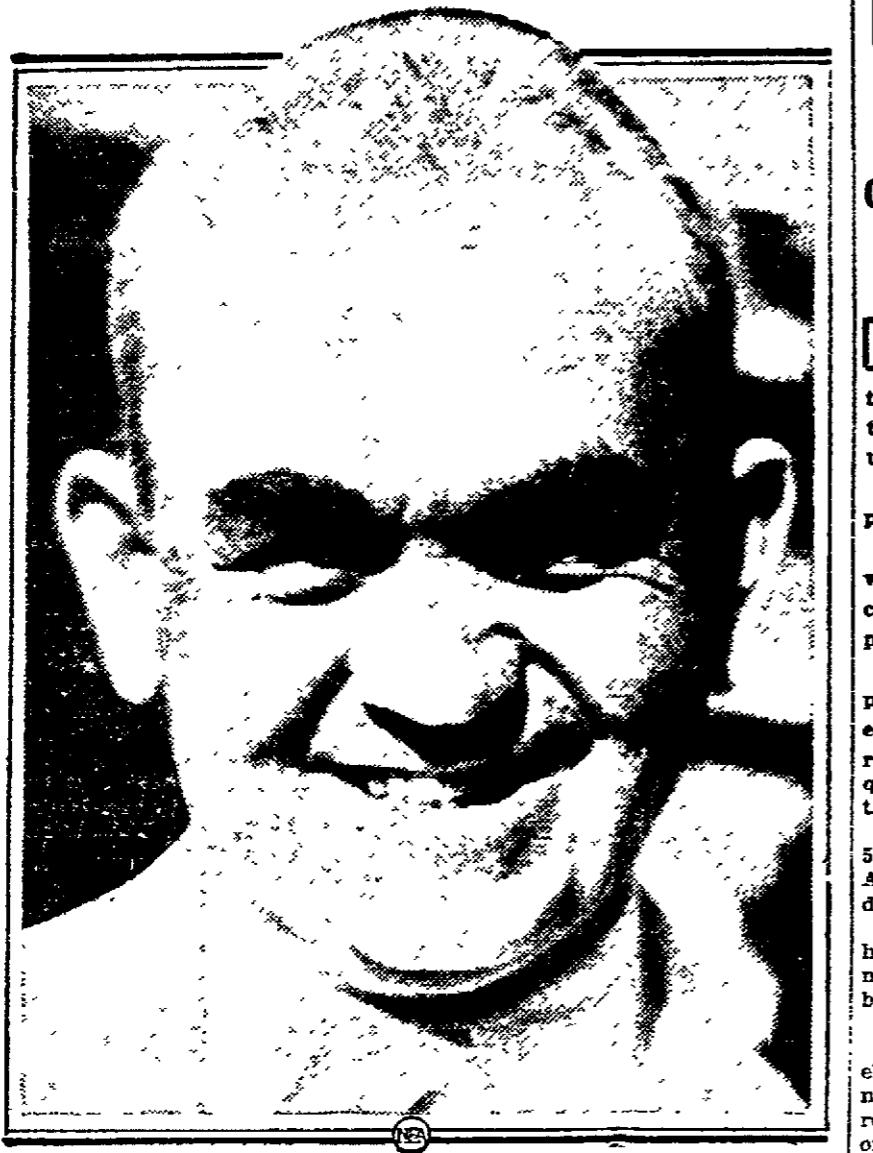

Kenosha—(P)—Reductions of 5 to 10 per cent in the salaries of Kenosha county officers and employees were voted last night by the county board. The action is expected to save the county $150,000 a year.

The reductions will be graduated, the 10 per cent cut going to the highest salary officers. They are effective Jan. 1 for executive officers and Jan. 1, 1932, for the clerical ones.

DISMISS CHARGE AGAINST DRIVER

A charge of reckless driving against A. Westphal, Appleton, was dismissed by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Wednesday afternoon for lack of evidence. Westphal was arrested on Oct. 18 by Gus Hersekorn, city motorcycle officer. Westphal's car, and a car driven by Mrs. Hersekorn, with whom Officer Hersekorn was riding, collided on E. Franklin St. The officer arrested Westphal, charging he was driving in a reckless manner. The evidence showed that the front of Hersekorn's car struck the side of Westphal's car.

QUESTION RIGHT OF BANKHEAD TO SEAT IN SENATE

the candidate of their choice upon the primary ballot was illegal and unlawful."

Outstanding conclusions of the report were:

That violations by election officials were the rule rather than the exception, and spread to every voting place examined.

That on the basis of ballots temporarily laid aside Hastings' workers could not find that the election result would be altered, but other questionable ballots might change this.

That Bankhead spent $1,500 to $2,500 more than permitted by the Alabama law disqualifying candidates with expenditures over $10,000.

That exclusion of all improperly handled ballots would make determination of the wishes of the Alabama majority impossible.

Law Violations

That among the law violations by election officials were failure to number the ballots in ink, failure to roll and seal the ballots, breakage of seals on ballot boxes, voting or absences as much as ten years out of the state, voting by persons who did not pay their poll taxes until long after the legally specified time.

Opportunity for fraud, said Hastings, was ever present and the combination of circumstances "would satisfy a reasonable person that some fraud has been committed."

The chairman has indicated he would have some recommendations for the committee later, in closed session. After this group acts the entire elections committee must study the report, and then it will be up to the senate.

Indications so far have been that Bankhead would be seated next week, the contest coming up later. Not much has been said about it yet by the senators, but Governor Miller of Alabama yesterday observed that Bankhead was "bona fide elected" and should be seated with out objection.

State Statutes Broken

Great emphasis was given by Hastings to the overwhelming disregard of provisions of state law intended to protect purity of the ballot. If they had been fewer, he said he assumed the committee would have ascertained whether exclusion of the tax provisions, especially the heavy income surtax levies, will have representatives present to air their views.

The senate corporations and taxation committee was relieved of the bill yesterday and a majority of the upper house decided to meet as a committee of the whole to consider it.

Indications are that the joint finance committee, to which the bill was referred by the assembly, will be asked to meet with the senate, since it had scheduled a hearing for next week also. That would curtail the time to be spent in arguments.

A significant resolution now pending before the senate and already adopted in the lower house, proposes to set up a deadline next Monday against the introduction of bills in the special session.

Regulars Must Hurry

If the senate concurs and the regular Republicans, who are openly opposed to the governor's method of raising the taxes for relief funds, decide to offer substitute measures, they will have to be introduced soon.

Senators Oscar H. Morris, Milwaukee, and Walter S. Goodland, Racine, both conservatives, have indicated they will present alternative bills.

Goodland, in particular, emphasized yesterday that he considers the progressive proposals in the light of a remodeling of the state's taxation structure and announced his unwillingness to vote for them.

A majority of the Republican regulars supported the motion of Senator Walter Pojarkowski, Milwaukee Socialist, that took the Fons Till from the standing committee and opened the way for an earlier hearing before the senate as a whole.

The Socialist program, which was to have been introduced yesterday, was delayed in drafting, will call for more money than the administration plan, but the socialists will have to support the Progressive bills in the special session.

MAITLAND AND BRIDE TO VISIT CALIFORNIA

San Antonio, Texas—(P)—First Lieutenant Lester J. Maitland, noted army air corps pilot and his bride, the former Kathleen McManus of San Antonio, plan to leave here about Dec. 20 for Burlingame, Calif., on their honeymoon. They will visit Lieutenant Maitland's parents for about three weeks. They were married here Monday.

The chamber of commerce board of directors will meet at Hotel Northern Friday noon, according to Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary. It is expected the board will act on two referenda of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. H. A. Schmitz is chairman of the two committees which recently made a study of the two referenda.

FIND DRIVER DIDN'T HAVE CITY LICENSE

Rex Verstegen, Appleton, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Wednesday afternoon when he was found guilty of operating a bus without a city license. Verstegen drives bus for the Fox River Bus company. He was arrested several weeks ago by Fred Arndt, motorcycle officer.

SETTLE PRINGLE SUIT

Los Angeles—(P)—Making a surprise appearance in superior court, Eunice Pringle settled for $3,000 to her $1,000,000 damage suit against Alexander Pantages, theatrical magnate, as the result of an alleged criminal attack.

It Is Said--

That various people in the city have been setting up drinks for unknown parties—involuntarily. The drinks consist of milk taken from door steps and receiving cabinets at various homes while people are asleep.

That the front of Hersekorn's car struck the side of Westphal's car.

GRAIN SPURTS LAID TO EFFECT OF BULL NEWS

"Front Page Psychology" Is Part of Some Observers' Explanations

Washington—(P)—"Front page psychology" is part of some market observers' explanation of the upturn in wheat.

They explain that the public eye, so long steeped in gloom, could not resist following the flicker of light in those headlines heralding a new day in grain. The open interest at Chicago has increased $6,000,000 bushels in the last month.

That means, they say, that new buying to the amount of the increase has come into the market and indicated the willingness of the public to follow operators on the bull side.

It has increased the volume of trade tremendously.

Much of the evidence of increased speculative interest is said to owe its existence to front page accounts of "dollar wheat" predictions and estimates that the successive rises which added 50 per cent to wheat values in less than 30 days had increased the worth of the crop by millions of dollars.

Hold Tight

Grains held in the face of heavy profit-taking and pretty substantial denial of reports that Russia would withdraw from the export market for two years. While the story about Russia may have been only a rocket, there is a chance that on its way up it sufficiently illuminated long-latent bull factors in wheat to maintain the new level.

There still is plenty of wheat in the world. The visible supply on October 1 was 500,000,000 bushels to which may be added 32,000,000 bushels of United States wheat held in bond in Canada. That would make the total only 16,000,000 bushels less than the visible on October 1, 1930, when exporting countries held a record carryover.

The bright spot is that most of the visible is in the United States and Canada and must be called upon by the rest of the world in what appears to be a bull market. However, a new crop is under way in the southern hemisphere. Cutting has started in Australia and by December exports should be getting heavy.

ARMY CORPS GETS CONFISCATED COAL

Claim Fuel Was Seized in Dry Squad Raid at Twelve Corners Recently

Seven tons of coal, which it is said were confiscated in a recent dry raid on a farm near Twelve Corners, have been brought to Appleton by the Salvation Army corps for distribution among needy families, according to Capt. H. L. Servais, corps head.

Two federal agents, it is said, informed the corps that the coal was available and could well be used for fire work.

The dry agents recently raided the farm and discovered several vats filled with marsh, which they confiscated, it was reported. A still had been removed from the farm.

Saturday Captain Servais secured two trucks from the city street department and brought the coal to Appleton.

W. Frank Cunningham, Milwaukee, deputy prohibition administrator, this morning refused to discuss the raid.

20 FARMERS ATTEND STEPHENVILLE MEET

About 20 farmers attended a meeting at the Stephenville auditorium yesterday at which Gus Sell, county agent, discussed feeds and how to make the feed dollar go farther. Mr. Sell distributed copies of the Feed Buyers' Guide, a bulletin issued by the state department of agriculture, and explained the bulletin and its use on the farm.

DRUNK IS FINED

Frank Plat, town of Ellington, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court before Judge Berg on a charge of not supporting his wife.

The theta H-T club members held their first meeting of the season last night at the Y. M. C. A. Plans for reorganization of the chapter were discussed, about 15 men will be invited to join, and meetings will be held at 7:30 Monday evenings. Cecil Fluminger again will be asked to lead the group.

VITAMIN C FOUND BY SWEDISH PROF AFTER LONG EFFORT

Stockholm, (P)—Ottar Ryg, Norwegian chemist, and scientific research worker at the University of Upsala, announced today his discovery of Vitamin C and a method for its production. His wife, Dr. Agnes Ryg, was given credit as codiscoverer.

Professor Ryg was assistant for two years to Professor Windhous in Gottingen in a search for Vitamin D.

Swedish medical experts hailed professor Ryg's discovery as a brilliant scientific triumph of great value. One of the effects, it was said, would be the possibility of practically annihilating scurvy.

Isolation of the pure Vitamin D was announced last week by Prof. Adolf Windhous who succeeded in isolating the crystal after four years of research. The physiological effects of Vitamin D are the same as those of sunshine and three-billionths of a gram of the pure crystal is sufficient to relieve rickets. One fifty-thousandths of a gram is poisonous.

The pure crystal isolated by Prof. Windhous was obtained by use of certain rays of "artificial sunlight."

Windhous was born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. Roland Mayer, route 1, Chilton, at St. Elizabeth hospital.

A son was born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hoerning, 1503 Superior-st.

BISHOP STURTEVANT WILL TALK TO CLERGY

All clergymen in the valley have been invited to the meeting.

THOUSANDS SPENT ON WINTER HOMES AT FLORIDA RESORT

Palm Beach, Fla.—(P)—Wealthy Palm Beach home owners have spared no expense in preparing their estates and residences for the 1931-32 winter season.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars have gone into new homes on the island, and into additions to buildings, landscaping, flower nurseries and seashells.

Almost a dozen luxurious new homes have been built during the summer of which probably the most attractive is the new residence of P. H. B. Frelinghuysen of Morris- town, N. J.

Other expensive homes have been erected for Mrs. Arthur Somers Roche, Mrs. Charles Harrington, and for Vincent Bendix, the latter two from Chicago.

Major Barclay H. Warburton of Jenkintown, Pa., has spent $80,000 remodeling his home, James H. Kennedy has spent $50,000, while H. C. and J. S. Phipps have improved their estates at a cost of $80,000.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, social captains here for many years, had a staff of 25 men working on a plan of beautification at "El Mirasol," their residence.

Mile. Helene Worth, daughter of Jacques Worth and granddaughter of the founder of the dressmaking house of that name, started the old-fashioned wedding vogue at her recent marriage to Jean Stanislas Iscovics.

ANOTHER LAWRENCE CONTRI-BUTION

Usually in considering the part which Lawrence college plays in the community life of Appleton the emphasis is upon the college as a financial asset, but Dr. Wriston, in his chamber of commerce forum address Tuesday noon, pointed to a contribution that is even larger and more important than its contribution to the wealth of the city. Dr. Wriston developed the thought that the college has a most decided influence upon the cultural life of the community because of its leadership in promoting an appreciation of the finer things in life.

Appleton owes its almost unique cultural position among the cities of America almost entirely to Lawrence college. For nearly a half century it has been the settled policy of the college to bring to Appleton the finest talent in all the arts, and the citizens of the community, absorbing appreciation and love of the beautiful from these artists, have developed a cultural atmosphere far above the ordinary.

The result is that Appleton is far better known throughout this country for the high standard of its citizenship and for its art appreciation than for any of its industrial products, as important as they are.

Dr. Wriston did not over-draw the picture as he discussed the services of the college to this community. It is impossible even to estimate the tremendous influence these services have had upon the people. Because they cannot be measured in the more easily understandable terms of dollars and cents, these services perhaps are not as appreciated as they should be, but they are none the less real.

Dr. Wriston's suggestion that Appleton should have a historical society to gather and conserve the historical treasures of the Fox river valley ought to find a ready response. No part of Wisconsin is richer in historical association than Appleton and the Fox river valley and it is regrettable that there has been no organized effort to preserve for future generations the relics and traditions of the early inhabitants of this territory.

Dr. Wriston expressed the willingness of Lawrence college to cooperate in this field. It needs only the support of Appleton people to assure an active and important historical society.
Dr. Wriston's suggestion affords another opportunity for that close cooperation between city and college that in the past has been so fruitful for both.

DISCOURTESY TO A GUEST
Regardless of political beliefs, or ha-treds for that matter, anti-fascist organizations in this country in protesting Dino Grandi's visit were acting contrary to the American idea of courtesy and civility. Those responsible for these acts of courtesy cannot be truly American at heart, nor have they any sensibility as to what constitutes fair play and sportsmanship.

It is an odd sort of intellectual faculty that found gratification in placarding New York with pictures of Grandi and underneath the startling announcement: "Wanted for arson and murder."

Sigmar Grandi was an invited guest of the President of the United States.
He came with a mission of the highest purpose. The invitation carried the hope that both he and his host, the President, by virtue of the powers invested in their high offices, might initiate measures for the restoration of economic stability to a world sorely needing help, encourage the reduction of armaments and take steps to maintain peace.

Demonstrations against the Italian representative were affronts against the President and the government of the United States as well. Men who could participate in such antics and tantrums are probably incapable of self-government. At least they do not know how to use free speech and freedom of action when they have them.

THAT MOONEY CASE AGAIN

The reaction in California to the intercession of Mayor Walker of New York for Tom Mooney, already 15 years in prison for the murder of 10 persons by bombing the 1916 preparedness parade, casts another light on the jealous way with which humanity guards its rights and resents the effort of anyone to tell it how to run its business.

Perhaps the Mooney case is bigger than the state of California but Californians do not think so. They have been fighting it out ever since the 10 bodies were buried. There is definite opinion on the coast that has taken cleavage into three classes, those who believe Mooney guilty, those who believe him not guilty, and a larger class which believes he did not have a fair trial.

Some diabolical mind engineered the construction and planting of a bomb that was to wipe out 10 innocent lives then bent upon a rapturous admiration of the passing parade. The history of criminal misconduct indicates that this crime was committed by one who was already given to violence. Billlings, an ex-convict, and whose defense at the trial was that he was, at or about the time, committing another crime of violence unconnected with these murders, and who was, assuredly, Mooney's companion a part of that awful day, was a man who might have committed this crime. Mooney had been suspected before of ownership of high explosives at a time when violent outrages were being committed but had never been convicted of anything.

Partisanship may as usual run its feverish course but it is too late now for a disinterested person to come to anything but an indecisive conclusion concerning the guilt of this man.

Yet the man did not have a fair trial,
his conviction stands only upon suspicion and that is worse than quicksand.

But says California, "There are bo-zos who think a mayor ought to spend part of his time cleaning up his own messes at home."

No sooner had Mayor Walker recovered from that bolt than he had this one directed at him, "When a bunch like your Hofstader committee starts getting curious it is time for a sensible guy to pack up his ante spats and take another vacation."

Then Mr. Walker was whirled with this one, "Of course, you can't do anything and don't expect to, but that doesn't count. It's the play that counts."

Correspondents are filling public columns with protests derisive, personal, vindictive. The merits of the Mooney case are lost in the shuffle and the question concerns Mayor Walker's right to intercede. The fact that Mr.
Walker claims to act as attorney for Mr. Mooney is not mentioned. Things go like this: "What's the good of being mayor of the biggest city in the country if you can't step out and fix things for California or any other state?" to which is added, "Everybody knows that writing songs and picking out neckties take up all the time you have left from City Hall receptions and getting up wire cracks."

And Los Angeles has, in caustic vein, invited Mr. Walker down, saying, "We haven't anybody to tell us how to run the town and things are getting into kind of a bad way. * * *
So you see we need a lot of fixing and we want you to do it. You mustn't say you don't know anything about these things for you know as much about them as you do about the Mooney case."

Somehow this sharpness of expression exposes the bitter, vitriolic feeling underneath justifying the thought that hatred or partisanship against Mooney is at the bottom of it all.

APPALING NEWS

The appalling news has come to us that some of the dentists in Montevideo are arranging for the installation of radios in their ante-rooms. It is easy to sympathize with the added sorrows of the unfortunate person waiting with dismal forebodings the extraction of some aching molar or bicuspid. While nervously anticipating the ordeal, he is just as likely as not to hear that his bank has been closed, or that his horse came in

Just Folks

FEAR

The great god Fear grinned back at me:
"I am the foe men never see,
The hurt they never feel," said he.

"I am the wrong they never bear,
The poison they themselves prepare,
I am the shadow on the stair.

"I have no voice and yet I speak;
No strength and yet I blanch the cheek
And leave the strongest mortals weak.

"I am the blackguard man befriends, Heeds most, feeds, cherishes, attends
And 'gainst all counsel wise defends.

"I fire no gun, I make no cry,
No lodging place in fact have I,
Yet I'm the countless deaths men die.

"Mine is a humor ghastly grim,
The lamp of reason I can dim,
Though I am nothing but a whim.

"I am man's cruellest, bitterest foe,
Yet past his door I could not go,
Had he the wit to tell me: 'No.'

JERSEY'S VOTE IS NO SURPRISE TO POLITICIANS

G. O. P. Admits National Election Today Would Be Democratic Triumph

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1931 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—New Jersey's special congressional election is a bitter pill for the Republicans to swallow but they were really not surprised. For while publicly they are all confident of ultimate victory, privately even the Republicans are inclined to concede that a national election held today would result in a Democratic triumph.

The history of elections held in the midst of a depression proves that in the Fifth New Jersey district Tuesday's result is no exception to the rule. The party in power is held accountable for the economic conditions that exist, and whether it is just or unjust the voters vent their dissatisfaction on the incumbents. A turnover of 36,000 votes in a normally Republican congressional district in such a state as New Jersey was naturally interpreted as involving landslide proportions if applied to a general election.

The Democrats are no longer in doubt about their ability to retain control of the house of representatives. They have a narrow but certain majority now and if there should be any Republican vacancies, the Democratic leaders think the tide would aid them in capturing additional seats.

The situation is not unlike what it was in 1910, when the Democrats captured the house and then in 1912 gained control of both houses. In 1910 the Democrats were confident the sentiment of the country was growing stronger in their behalf and that it would mean eventual complete control.

Dissatisfaction in Slump

But the 1910 result was due to dissatisfaction with the rising cost of living. Parallel to the present situation must be looked for in the economic depressions of American history wherein the party in power was usually trounced at the succeeding election.

The Democrats feel that there are two issues working in their favor. In the northern districts where the Democrats are due to make the biggest gains—for they always command a certain strength in the southern states—the economic issue and the prohibition question both operate against the Republicans. The northern Republicans are for the most part dry and with the exception of a few states where they have broken away from the Hoover stand on prohibition, most of the Republicans are facing opposition from Democrats whose platforms range all the way from modifying the Volstead act or submitting the question to a referendum to repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

If a northern Republican deserts Mr. Hoover on the prohibition question and takes the wet side, he finds

HOME OWNING PLAN MAPPED BY PRESIDENT

Hoover Says Purchase Should Be Similar to Other Installment Buying

Washington—(P)—A command to heed the fundamentals of human sentiment was thrown by President Hoover last night across the path of technical endeavor for better housing of the nation's families.

They never sing songs about a pile of rent receipts . . . Those immortal ballads, Home Sweet Home, My Old Kentucky Home, and the Little Grey Home in the West, were not written about tenements or apartments.

So Mr. Hoover gave the keynote to the thousand delegates he welcomed to the conference on home buying and ownership. They set out today to work on more than 20 reports of experts which have been in preparation during the past year.

The essential of the Hoover design for the conference is that purchase of a home for a family shall be made possible to the average man on such the same basis that he acquires a car, a radio, or a fur coat for his wife.

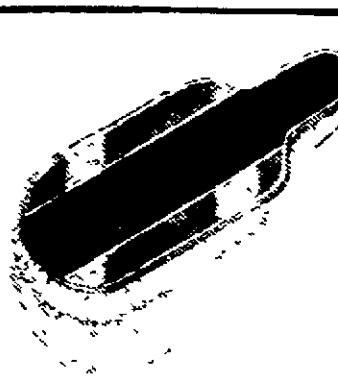

The president seeks to go away with the expensive financing now forced upon people or limited means. Though they have little cash and their principal asset is a job and good character, they should have available to them financing that would "dignify the name credit," and do away with "terms and risks comparable to the credit extended by a pawn-broker."

People Good Risk

"These people," said Mr. Hoover, "would willingly work and apply all their energy and all their savings to gain for themselves this independence and security and social well-being. Such people are a good risk. They are the very basis of stability to the nation."

He pointed out specifically that he excluded those able to finance by

Santa Suggests A Combination Brush and Comb

BY LILLIAN

Further to the right at the small end of the brush comes to Christmas gift.

Being a man, however, as grown-ups are, he does not enjoy this kind of an offering, nor ever has. I have a strong belief that a man does not like to be told what to do.

High in the list of a man's brush and comb is a new lesson to the man of the house come when the man has a sick wife or a small child, or a housewife who has a little trouble with her hair. The man is present at the comb, and it looks like this:

per cent of the men say that he is not satisfied with the sources of his income.

"Every one of us," he said, "has a desire to be independent and to have his own place to live in, and to have a family of his own. He wants to be a man in his own right, to be his own master in all that he does, and to be independent of the influences of family life."

"This natural desire to be independent is being. It makes for health, it makes for happiness, it makes for contentment, it makes for a better life."

"There can be no democracy or social justice or liberty or freedom without the ownership of property. It is the real basis of the nation."

He outlined the bad pieces for elimination, and then

OVER-PRODUCTION MAY RUIN DAIRY INDUSTRY

Chicago—(P)—Malton Hult of Davenport, Iowa, said he fears overproduction may ruin the dairy industry. "There has been an increase of 4 per cent in the number of dairy cows since November, 1930," he told the National Dairy Council yesterday. "This figure will be increased further during 1932 because calving has been the only branch of dairying profitable recently. The problem will be particularly acute during the next six months, and threaten the welfare of the country's largest single industry."

ment conditions, the more serious parts of it may prove to be.

Along these lines, one of the proposed bills in the Senate, introduced by Senator W. E. Borland of Texas, would require the National Milk Commission to establish a surplus milk control board. The board would be responsible for the movements of the milk market, and broader areas were to be covered by the plan.

Another committee in the country is in effect at the present time to carry out a similar program. While the legislation grows, there is no time to let up on the efforts to keep paved highroads to the market, and to let the market work.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

1929 by NEA Service, Inc.

D. RAYNOR, sensing at once that he had made a mistake, made a swift apology. "Of course I know that you can dance, only..."

"I understand. I won't be a flat tire on your hands. Maybe I'm not fast enough to be a one-minute girl or whatever the girls are called who change partners every five feet, but if I fail I can always go to the dressing room...with a ripped hem or a headache."

Ruth Bradley was playing her cards openly. He knew—everyone knew—that she never was in demand. She had formed the habit of shrinking away. Not tonight, though. She knew that she had a grace and a charm, an exotic something that even Sally didn't possess. She would tell Joe Raynor that she was a risk—and then—oh, what if she did go dead on his hands?

"Please, God, don't let me. Just for one night make me shine. Please, please," she prayed as the young doctor's car went down the moon-bright road.

Far ahead she saw the lights of the clubhouse.

She knew that the girls in the dressing room stared. They didn't know her very well. One or two had been nice to her. Most of them had been afraid to be, even as children, because Sally was popular and Sally was jealous of favor shown to another. Now they were confused at her dazzling gown and riotous hair and bright red lips.

Most of the people were already dancing. Ruth was glad that she had let herself swing into dance steps, just for the fun of it, all by herself sometimes, when she was home alone. She knew the pieces the orchestra played. They had echoed through the living room often. She knew how to dance to them.

Just the same she was rather frightened as she stepped into the dancing throng. The music was gay and illusive. In a second she forgot herself. She was drifting away somewhere with Joe Raynor. The old magic was back... She slumped up to see if he felt it, too. But his eyes were on the floor. Following them, Ruth found a pair of crystal-studded slippers with rhinestone heels that caught the lights of the room. They shone among the purple and blue and silver shoes. Ruth knew that they belonged to Sally.

A silken white sheen, daringly low in the back caught with a cluster of violet orchids that had a glamor that sparkled like diamonds or dew-drops.

Ruth knew now that Joe was waiting for someone to cut in, so he could cut in on Sally. He was leading her skillfully, carefully in her sister's direction.

Then, almost before the thought had centered in her mind, she heard a friendly voice say "Sorry," and she was caught in another pair of arms. She looked into Jack Thornton's smiling eyes. And just beyond her saw Sue's eyes warm and interested, watching her.

"She asked her husband to cut in on me," Ruth told herself in sudden realization.

If a custard curdles in cooking you have only to place the sauce pan over cold water and beat it with an egg beater till smooth.

In mending china use white paint such as artists use in oil paintings. Use as you would glue, and let stand for three or four days. Dishes thus mended may be washed in hot water with no danger of coming apart.

If you sprinkle salt over the coal in liberal quantities it will make it burn more evenly and prevent "clinkers."

Lost Ugly Fat

Her Husband Says She Looks Five Years Younger!

There is a certain weight at which every woman looks her loveliest—not skinny underweight nor pendulous overweight, but normal weight. "My husband says I look five years younger," writes this lady of 29 who—thanks to her daily doses of Kruschen Salts—is unburdened her body of 15 pounds of ugly fat. Read her letter:

"Having heard from a friend of mine that she had lost considerable weight since taking Kruschen Salts, I started using them in July last, when I weighed 177 lbs. I have lost weight steadily since then and am now 159 lbs—my normal weight. Moreover, I feel brighter and more energetic in every way. I have acquired of my dressmaker my measurements. Last August last were: Bust 40, Hips 43, Waist 33 inches. Last week they were: Bust 38, Hips 40, Waist 31 inches, which is normal for my height, which is 5 ft. 8 in. My age is 29. My husband is a very severe critic. He says I look five years younger. There is no other reason for my loss of weight except Kruschen, as I do not take any particular diet."

(Mrs.) S. R., London, England. A bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last four weeks costs but 55 cent—try one bottle—if not joyfully satisfied—money back. For sale by Schmitz Bros. Co. s stores.—Adv.

GIVE SPECIAL CARE TO YOUR EYE LASHES

BY ALICIA HART

There is no denying the charm of bright eyes veiled with a deep fringe of curling lashes.

Only about one woman in a thousand has perfect lashes, a real gift of the gods.

But anyone can help out her lashes, if she has a mind to. Not obviously, for nothing is worse than eyes that drip mascara or show other makeup in distressing amount.

The best way to really help your lashes is first of all to take care of them and second to skillfully apply a bit of make-up.

Caring for them consists of just two things, but both must be done each day. The first is to apply oil. The best oil is castor oil. Be careful not to get any of it in your eyes. Dip your second finger on your right hand into the oil and apply it gently to the edges of both upper and lower lids. Do not wipe it off. Leave it on over night.

The second precaution is to brush out your eyelashes after you have dusted on your powder. You can give the upper lashes a little flick as you dust them. It tends to curl them back a bit, which never hurts anyone's looks.

As to make-up, there is a new liquid mascara which is put on with a little stick that comes in the bottle. Do it carefully and don't overdo it. Usually it is more successful if you concentrate most of your effort on the upper lashes. They are longer, more luxuriant and take to make-up better and less obviously than the lowers.

Some women with fair coloring and enviable large eyes use a faint line of make-up pencil just under the lashes on the lower lids, in preference to mascara. This makes some women look haggard, but for others it gives a big, wondering look that is appealing. You can only tell which category you belong in by trying.

WARN STUDENTS TO BRING LOTS OF CASH

Paris—(P)—American students who plan a year's work in Paris must have at least from $1,200 to $1,500—and a ticket home—when they arrive here, or they may face misery, educational authorities agree.

Students who hope to work their way through a French university, as many do in America, will find it impossible. New teeth in the laws against alien workers and the general difficulty in finding employment make it out of the question for students to be self-sufficient.

Yet despite these difficulties the Sorbonne, bulwark of French culture, has a hundred more foreign students than last year.

$24 TAX RATE APPROVED BY CITY COUNCIL

Resolution Establishing Figure Adopted by Aldermen Last Night

Neenah — Neenah's new tax rate was set by the common council last night at $24 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation. This is a decrease of $4 under last year's rate. The total amount to be raised in taxes is $371,779.80.

The tax money will be used for the following purposes: city departments, $38,215.87; water works fund, $8,524.65; vocational education fund, $12,253.24; city school tax fund, $12,681.67; library fund, $15,955.55; poor fund, $17,867.41; street, highways and bridge fund, $81,930.97; general fund, $56,340.15.

A report of A. Wheeler, assistant building inspector, proposing several improvements at the city hall and providing for storage of at least six motor vehicles at one time on the main floor were presented. The report showed the building was erected in 1888. It also suggested that not more than 150 people should be accommodated at a dance or dining event, and not more than 150 for other occasions in the auditorium. The report was placed on file. The committee on parks and public buildings will ascertain costs of the improvements.

The city will erect a Christmas tree at the intersection of Wisconsin and Commercial-st. The city clerk will secure a tree and have it decorated.

Investigate Parking

Enforcement of the three-quarter hour parking ordinance, especially on N. Commercial-st., will be investigated. Alderman Ebert reported that several complaints had been received from property owners along the thoroughfare that many cars were parked there for hours at a time. He suggested that a new ordinance be drawn prohibiting any parking on that street.

The mayor and clerk were authorized to negotiate with Chicago-Northwestern railway company for a strip of abandoned right of way with a 270 foot frontage on Harrison-st adjoining the proposed Fourth ward park area, which affords the only Harrison-st entrance to the city's property. A price of $600 has been asked for the land. The same railway company also gave the city a five year lease on land along its main right of way adjacent to the proposed park to be constructed behind the retaining wall along the Fox river, which is being filled in for the purpose. The city in accepting the lease will pay all taxes on the property, provide necessary fencing, filling and keep the property in shape. This is also the only entrance from E. N. Water-st to the city's proposed park and playground.

The city's title to the land east of the lakeshore road between E. Wisconsin-ave and Kimberly park at the mouth of the Fox river along the lake shore is to be investigated by the city attorney at the request of Mrs. Stuart, who thought the city should have clear titles of all its land along the lake shore which is being used at present by private parties.

The ordinance presented at the last meeting prohibiting emptying surface water and overflow water from eaves into the sanitary sewer, was disapproved by the ordinance committee.

Plan Storm Sewer

Resolution authorizing a storm sewer on certain Fourth ward streets and advertising for bids was adopted. An application for a license to operate a roller rink Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday nights at S. A. Cook armory by Benjamin Thomas was granted, as was an application presented by L. Bresinger to operate a soft drink parlor on Main-st.

Bids will be received up to 1 o'clock on the evening of Dec. 9 by the board of public works for constructing the second and fourth ward storm sewers. The bids must include a wage scale of not less than 40 cents an hour and work, so far as possible, will be given Neenah's unemployed. Bids will be opened in the council chamber.

The mayor and clerk were authorized to negotiate with Daniel Nielsen for a piece of land on Division-st and to report the purchase price to the council. Bids totaling $11,616.60 were approved. Petition for a loan on E. Wisconsin-ave between Elm and Pine-sts was granted. Acceptance of funds by the clerk from the George F. Thompson and Fred Barrett estates for perpetual care of cemetery lots was sanctioned by the council. Monthly reports of the police and poor departments and the justices were referred to the attorney and poor committee. The city's cost for caring for its needy during the month was $1,250, according to the report.

Mayor Sande thanked the heads of the various committees for their promptness in getting out their budgets for the coming year. The budgets were carefully studied so that a reduction in the tax rate was made possible.

An adjournment was taken until the evening of Dec. 11 so that immediate action could be taken in accepting the bid for the sewer work.

NEGATIVE DEBATERS MEET OSHKOSH TEAM

Neenah — The high school negative debate squad composed of Jane Kettering, Robert Ozanne, Alfred Grefe, Mildred Erdman and Pearl Oehike, went to Oshkosh Wednesday afternoon to take part in a non-conference, non-decision tilt with the Oshkosh high school affirmative team. The question for debate this season is "Resolved: that the several states should enact legislation providing for compulsory unemployment insurance."

The Oshkosh negative team was to have come to Neenah Thursday afternoon for a tilt with the local affirmative team composed of Harry Miller, Althea Coy, Glenn Coy, Rose Kettering, Dorris Colle and Willard Kettering.

SHAWL PAGEANT PRESENTED BY CHURCH GROUP

Program at Congregational Church Sponsored by Aid Society

Special to Post-Crescent

New London — Showing the use that shawls have had in the social progress of the world, the Congregational Ladies aid society presented a "Little Pageant of Shawls," Wednesday evening at the Congregational church. It probably will be repeated after Christmas.

A short orchestra concert was given by George Feurst, Verne Blonder, A. R. Brusen, Wesley Calef and Mrs. Aiken Fellenz, after which the pageant was presented against a screen of shawls. These shawls and those worn throughout the presentation created a sensation by their richness and beauty, many having interesting histories concerning their owners with foreign lands or with bits of family history dating back through generations. A number of the most beautiful were loaned from the collection of antiques of Mrs. George Dawley, who herself was present, wearing coat made from a six yard Paisley shawl which has been in her family for many years.

The pageant opened with the appearance of the American Indian duo, Mrs. John Monsted, Jr., and little Miss Ruth Hanson, the latter giving a short Indian dancing interpretation. Appropriate musical settings ushered each character, and an interpretative recitative was given throughout the pageant by Mrs. C. B. Reuter.

Shawls For Babies

Carrying in her arms the infant daughter of Mrs. John Monsted, Jr., Mrs. Rudd Smith sang a lullaby. The recitation at this point pointed out the significance of babies and snow white shawls worn only by them. Following this came the old fashioned costume worn by Mrs. Don C. Ramm, and the Spanish mantilla displayed by Mrs. M. A. Borchardt.

A tribute to old fashioned mothers was paid to Mrs. Harley Heath upon her appearance wearing the old red shawl remembered by many. With this character Mrs. Elizabeth La Bude of Weyauwega soloed for the evening, sang "Mother Macree." A clever characterization was that of Mrs. F. E. Patchen, who appeared in the sieghing costume worn in olden days in the New England states.

Gypsies and their pagan dress were introduced by Miss Charlotte Arandt and Miss Rose Gorwitz and with their colorful entrance Mrs. La Bude sang the "Gypsy." The style of mid Victorian days was depicted in the costume worn by Mrs. I. L. Zaug, and with the Paisley shawl and display of hoop skirts worn by Mrs. Marvay Steinberg. Mrs. La Bude sang "Annie Laurie." The shawls of plantation days worn by the traditional colored mammy were displayed by Mrs. Charles Palmer with her little daughter, Joyce and Jane Gaddis dressed in pickaninnies costumes. Mrs. Harold Zaug in a Mandarin coat and pantaloons of Chinese type displayed a shawl of Chinese design.

One of the most characteristic costumes of the evening was that worn by Mrs. Ellis N. Calef who appeared wearing the shawls typical of Biblical days, carrying a water jar upon her shoulder.

Deputies Modern Maid

The advent of the modern maid characterized the display of the modern evening costume with accompanying shawl worn by Mrs. J. J. Burns. This was followed by the picturesque entrance of the immigrant mother and her children, the part being taken by Mrs. Henry Hoffman her little daughter Joyce and Gloria Fisher, the latter dressed as a small immigrant boy. Mrs. Hoffman carried a box once carried by an immigrant, still bearing the name and destination of its Nordic owner. The display of old and new costumes ended upon the entrance of Mrs. Ruth Hanson attired as Goddess of Liberty bearing a lighted torch in her hand. In this as in many of the preceding numbers a quaint behind the scenes sang appropriately chosen selection. The procession from the stage about the auditorium of the church and the closing music of the orchestra ended the entertainment. Those of the quintet included Mrs. A. L. Sevance, Mrs. F. J. Pfeifer, Mrs. E. C. Josi, Mrs. Milton A. Ulrich of this city and Mrs. Elizabeth La Bude of Weyauwega. Usheers dressed in evening gowns and shawls included Miss Louis Denning, Miss Carleen Sevance, Miss Lucille Baldwin and Miss Marlene Zaug. Mrs. J. W. Morsted, Sr., president of the Ladies Aid society superintended the pageant's presentation.

City schools funds were decreased as $3,206.37 was used and only $1,000 was paid back into the fund, leaving a balance of $15,694.56. SELL DISCUSSES DAIRY FEEDS AT FARMERS' MEETING

Tells Dairymen How to Make Best Purchases During Winter Months

BY W. F. WINSEY

Black Creek—Some of the farmers of the town of Cicerro are short of corn silage, some of hay, and others of grain. In cases where a farmer is short of one kind of home grown dairy feed he is quite well supplied with other kinds. These facts were brought out by County Agent G. A. Sell at a dairy feed meeting held in the town hall of Cicerro, Tuesday night.

In cases of a shortage of hay, the county agent recommended the using of oat feed, a by-product of the oat meal mills on the ground that as a roughage for cattle and horses it equals timothy hay and cost considerably less. As a source of protein feed, he recommended Unseed oil meal, gluten meal, soybean meal and dried brewer's grain, the final choice to be based on the current market prices of the feeds.

Using the feed buyers' guide, issued by the college of agriculture as a test, the county agent showed the dairymen how to figure out the most economical "feed buys" based on the milk production and market prices.

The county agent also discussed a number of balanced grain rations, based upon the various kinds of roughages, such as corn silage and good legume hay; corn silage and mixed clover hay; corn silage, part timothy hay, over stored, or oat feed and part marsh hay, oat straw or hay, and so forth.

Dairymen who took part in the discussions were Elmer Brangman, Elmer Mueller, Victor Mueller, Melvin Mayes, Eiel Thomas, Arnold Burckert, Alvin Karsman, Orlie Wissel, Norman J. Plooy, George Mueller, Herbert W. Mueller, Harry March, Chas. Miller, Albert R. Miller, R. C. Schulte, Zander August, Burmester, William Zeway, August Grunwald, Thos. A. Miller and Ray Marcus.

The council of agriculture, of the association, Appleton, voted to join the "fly-by-night" cooperatives. At a recent meeting of the council at Madison the members went on record as opposing the organization of the proposed National Cooperative Milk pool. The council pointed out there was no need for a new organization in the dairy field, since there is a sufficient number of organizations operating with the endorsement of the council of agriculture, the department of agriculture and the college of agriculture. Unless these three groups give their endorsement to the plan the council of agriculture opposes the organization.

But what of these crops next year? Are we planning these so that they will best meet the farm's need for the coming year? Will they be balanced to meet the feeding demands of our livestock—enough for cattle, for hogs, for poultry, for horses, for sheep? Is there enough of the right kind of pasture to carry through next year's feeding season? Are they planned so that another dry year could be safely met, if necessary?

Are the livestock and the poultry which consume these crops the kind that will return to their owners the most for the feeds and money invested in them?

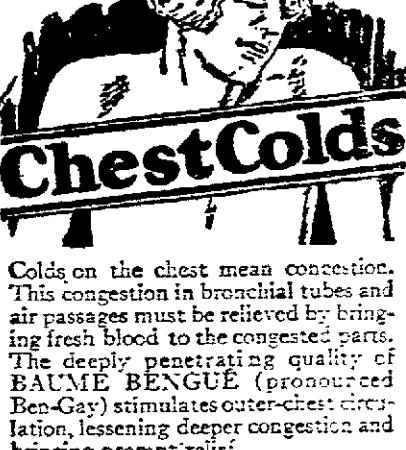

Will our cash crops be planned according to market demands and will they be marketed efficiently?

During the coming winter months there will be opportunity for Outagamie farmers to get together and talk over these questions. Meetings, institutes, and other gatherings will be held from time to time when we can not only talk over but plan together for the coming year.

Prescribed for over 50 years, for every pain of nerve and muscle.

Orange Cagers Meet Wisconsin Rapids In Practice Game Friday

TRIP PREPARES SQUAD FOR FOX VALLEY OPENER

Six Members of Last Year's Title Aggregation Are Again Performing

BULLETIN
Appleton high school basketball team will make a two day trip out of its jaunt into central Wisconsin, it was announced Thursday morning. Marshfield high school authorities consented to have the Orange five take on the northern school Saturday evening at Marshfield.

The Orange quintet wound up practice sessions tonight and will leave shortly after noon tomorrow for the Rapids. Saturday the team will hop to Marshfield, returning home late Saturday night.

APPLETON high school basketball team will get its first baptism of fire in the 1931-32 season tomorrow night when the Orange cagers take a jaunt into central Wisconsin and play Wisconsin Rapids high school. Originally Coach Joseph Shields tried to schedule two games with Wisconsin river or central Wisconsin teams. However, the Rapids was the only school that was willing to take on the Orange, others fearing the team because it was a Fox Valley League co-champion last year and has six veterans.

Coach Shields will take a squad of men with him large enough to allow for generous substitution. Shields wants to try out all of his protégés so he can decide who will accompany the squad regularly this season. About 12 youngsters are seeking positions on the squad.

The Orange lineup for Friday will center around the veterans. They are Bobbie Rule and Ken Priebe forwards, Bill Peotter center and Joe Verrier and Emmett Mortell guards. Priebe and Peotter are co-captains of the team.

Nothing is known around here of the strength of the Rapids five. Last year the team defeated Appleton when the Orange made a trip through the Wisconsin river valley meeting Stevens Point and the Rapids. Leo Huber who manages the Wisconsin Rapids baseball team is coaching the Rapids cagers.

The Orange quintet will open the Fox River Valley season next week Friday when the team goes to East Green Bay for what probably will be one of the hardest games on the long schedule. Appleton will play 14 Valley conference games this year.

K. OF G. QUINTET PLAYS HERE FRIDAY

Meets Plymouth Council Team at Wilson Junior High Gymnasium

The Father Fitzmaurice Council of the Knights of Columbus will open its 1931-32 basketball season Friday evening when the team plays host to the Plymouth Council team at the Wilson Junior high school. The game is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

Appleton played its first season last year as an unattached team playing ten games and winning seven. This year with a complete schedule of games with teams representing Kaukauna, Menasha, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Sheboygan and Plymouth, the Appleton team will play a home and home schedule with the final games being played in March. This schedule together with non-conference games will permit the Appleton team to play about twenty games.

The Plymouth team will show a squad composed of former high school stars at the Chesse City who have promised a battle before the winning team is picked. Having played two games already this season they will have a decided edge over the Appleton team.

U. W. CAGERS BEATEN BY ALUMNI, 18 AND 10

Madison (AP)—Some 500 fans saw the University of Wisconsin's varsity and sub-varsity basketball teams take a trimming from a group of alumni at the field house here yesterday. It was the first of a series of open practices being inaugurated by Coach Walter Meanwell in an effort to bring the basketball team in closer touch with the team. Between halves Dr. Meanwell interpreted several rules for the benefit of the fans.

The alumni five consisted of Carl Matthiessen and George Nelson, forwards; Harry Griswold, center, and John Paul and John Doyle, all former Wisconsin players. They defeated the varsity teams 18-10.

The varsity showed the usual early season weakness in passing and shooting.

The following is one of a series of articles being written for the Wisconsin State Journal, Madison, by the paper's sports editor, Henry J. McCormick. Because they will be of much interest to all persons interested in the Badgers and because they will serve to correct the errors made in a report given out several days ago by another Madison paper and given state wide publicity, we will run them daily in this column.

Wisconsin pays $18,975 this year as coaches' salaries instead of the $17,500 mentioned several days ago. Outside of actual mistakes in salaries, the story also erred in charging certain salaries against football where the recipients had no connection with the coaching staff and in charging the total salaries of certain coaches against football where these men also coached in other sports and also taught in the school of physical education.

WILL CURTAIL MINOR SPORTS DURING YEAR

Rumor Glenn to Be Succeeded by H. O. Crisler or Charles Dorais

BY E. L. ALMEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

MADISON (AP)—Failing to reach a definite decision regarding the retention or rejection of head football coach Glenn Thistlethwaite, the University of Wisconsin board of regents and the athletic council postponed further consideration until next Wednesday night.

The board and the council met in a joint session that lasted six hours yesterday. It was the first meeting between the two bodies in the history of the institution. In addition to discussing the coaching situation, they were in full charge of the thirtieth annual convention to day and ready to complete their plans for a drastic reorganization of the association—a reorganization which would oust the present administration body and replace it with a committee of five club owners with absolute powers of management and control.

The showdown of their fight was definitely set for today, and not one member of the old regime, headed by president Mike Sexton, of Rock Island, Ill., had any hopes of retaining his powers. Only because some "rebel-minded" owners wanted to get more information about the reorganization plan, was the movement postponed from yesterday.

Under the plan, Sexton, president for 22 years, would be retired with a full year's salary, and the committee, three members from the class AA league and the other two from class B and D leagues, placed in full charge for a year, during which it would make recommendations.

The committee would be directed to create a central purchasing agency for all minor league supplies, make contracts toward general rehabilitation and to map campaigns to give minor league baseball a wider appeal.

"No Action Taken"

"In addition there was presented by Director of Athletics George Little a survey of the entire football situation. No action was taken. The matter will be further considered at a joint meeting of the two committees next Wednesday evening."

Rumors have persisted that coach Thistlethwaite will be succeeded at Wisconsin next year but the coach this week was quoted as saying that he had no intention of submitting his resignation. H. O. "Fritz" Crisler of the University of Minnesota has been mentioned as a possible successor to Coach Thistlethwaite. Some significance also has been attached to the visit here of Charles Dorais, coach of the university of Detroit, as a guest of a member of the board of regents.

Whatever action is taken relative to the coaching situation it remains certain that the minor sports program at the university will be curtailed. The athletic department faces a $72,000 deficit as a result of decreased football gate receipts this year and trimming of minor sports expenses will be necessitated.

GOLF, TENNIS BANNED

Director Little said the university's representatives at the Big Ten conference in Chicago tomorrow will be instructed to schedule contests in baseball, track, wrestling, swimming, hockey, gymnastics and fencing on a limited scale but that tennis and golf matches will be indefinitely postponed.

The board of regents and the athletic council decided to cut expenses by having minor sports teams do less travelling, and cutting down the personnel of such teams while traveling. It was also decided to encourage more interclass competition.

Director Little said the university will participate in every championship meet held by the Western conference schools but that less dual meets will be conducted.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

BOSTON—Lou Brouillard, Worcester, knocked out Buck Lawless, Syracuse, N. Y., (3) Vernon Corrieri, Worcester, outpointed Tracy Cox, Indianapolis (7).

D. G. S. bowlers won another three games Tuesday night on Elk Alley and moved to a full three game lead in loop standings. The bowlers were the most recent victims of the leaders.

Every member of the D. G. S. team clocked better than a 439 series score and that accounts for the win. The team now has been listed as a "scratch" team in Elk circles. E. Ashman rolled 133, 150, 160-493 to set the pace and was followed by F. Erickson with 137, 137, 122-455. Teasers moved into a tie for second honors with the Tip Tops by beating the J. Haug team in three straight. M. Ingensrohr again did the heavy work with a score of 130, 144, 150-454. For the losers E. Weisgerber pounded out a 124, 151, 147-420.

Tip Tops won two from the Cubs to remain in second place. The team dropped the first game when E. Schreier slipped to 55, won the second with M. Becker's 154 and the third with nice 203 by E. Miller. For the Cubs E. Verstegen showed 150, 159, 157-422.

Use of unslacked lime for field markings resulted in painful burns to players in the Simmons-Texas Christian football game.

Schmeling-Walker Bout Awaits Maxie's Approval

BY WILBUR WOOD

NEW YORK—(CPA)—Definite announcement of a Schmeling-Walker heavy weight championship fight over the 15-round route in Miami under the auspices of the Madison Square Garden corporation of Florida next February is likely to come before the end of the week. Signing of the match will be delayed, however, until Schmeling arrives from Germany around Dec. 12.

This match, like that between Schmeling and Strelak, has been hawked around in several spots. First it was booked for Los Angeles, then Atlantic City, then Miami, then Los Angeles again. Now it is around to Miami the second time and probably will be dropped off there to stay.

There are certain definite advantages that would accrue from the selection of Miami as the spot. For one thing, by fighting there under Garden auspices, a possible court battle over the scope of the contract the champion signed with the Garden last year would be obviated.

BOOTH GIVEN MANY HONORS AT YALE; CAPTAINED 2 TEAMS

Peddled Milk During Prep Days, Sold Cars While in College

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The tremendous physical strain of three years of varsity football, two baseball and two basketball campaigns put upon a physique that mustered only 145 pounds is believed to have contributed to the breakdown that has forced Albie Booth into a private sanitarium for months of rest and recuperation.

Despite his lack of size, the "little boy" of Yale's major teams since his freshman year has put a long and vivid athletic career behind him. At Yale he duplicated his all-around athletic activities through four years in a New Haven high school and a year at Milford school. In addition he worked every bit of his way.

Conducted Milk Route

With two brothers, Albie conducted a milk route that forced him out of bed each morning of his high school days at 4 a. m. that provided him with funds to stay in school. When he landed at Yale, Albie sold automobiles to pay his bills.

There have been university heroes aside from athletic laurels to fill the time of the rugged little fellow who was the first of modern Yale ball carriers to gain more than 1,000 yards from scrimmage in a single season. Last month he was elected chairman of the "prom" committee for class day exercises next June.

Booth captained football, basketball and baseball teams in his freshman year, captained his last varsity football squad, and was captain elect of the baseball five. He roamed over the baseball team, playing shortstop, third base or center field equally well. He won five varsity letters, in baseball and football, besides two minor awards in basketball.

Not since Mel Aldrich captained both the football and baseball teams in his senior year has Yale boasted an athlete as versatile as Booth.

Refused Captaincy

He might have set a record never before equaled in Yale history by accepting the baseball captaincy to add to the honor football and basketball, said him, after Edgar Warren, captain elect, lost an arm last August in a motor boat accident.

The boys decided to elect Albie, but Booth shook his head.

"Ed will be out there yet," he said.

Warren probably will be, but Booth has finished his varsity career. He will need at least four months rest in the Gaylord Sanitarium at Wallingford fighting off a pleurisy infection and the danger of a more serious lung ailment.

Middle West Football Made Poor Record This Season

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS

Copyright, 1931

CHICAGO (CPA)—Football as played in the Western conference during the recent season was, as a whole, the poorest the Big Ten has produced in several years. Notre Dame, finishing its season with two defeats, obviously was far below the standard of the last two years, while the terrific defeat of Nebraska by Pittsburgh further reduced the standard of play for the entire middle west.

Northwestern and Notre Dame were the most serious disappointments of the year in the corn lands. For the first month of the campaign Northwestern was rated as one of the greatest teams ever developed in the conference, and until Southern California struck this year's Notre

BIG 10 DIRECTORS GATHER IN CHICAGO

Football Schedules Will Be Approved, Track Dates Selected

Chicago (AP)—Western conference athletic directors and coaches will gather in Chicago tomorrow for their annual winter meeting, to arrange schedules and to talk about such things as charity contests and an ailment described as falling of the gate receipts.

While the directors and coaches are holding their various meetings, the faculty committee on athletics will get together, probably in secret, for their annual session.

Football schedules for 1932 are ready and need only to be approved, but the annual indoor and outdoor track and field championship dates must be selected and awarded. This, however, probably will leave plenty of time for the football coaches to dwell on the unexpected outcome of the championship race, and to exchange notes on the financial situation.

There may also be announcements of changes in football coaches, for reports persist that Bernie Bierman, now at Tuane, will succeed Fritz Crister at Minnesota, and that Glenn Thistlethwaite will not be at Wisconsin a year hence.

Three more captains have been elected by Big Ten football squads for next season. Minnesota has chosen Walter Hass, halfback; Purdue has named John Oehler, a reserve center, while Chicago has named Don Birney, halfback.

Appleton Team Holds One Point Margin at End of First Quarter

Fond du Lac Cardinals invited the Appleton Fox Aces down to the down town city last night and then gave them a trimming, 32 and 24 at Eagles hall. The Cards are the crack pro cage team at Fond du Lac.

Appleton held a one point lead at the end of the first quarter but the half saw the count 19 and 9 for the Cards. In the third quarter the Cards stepped out a bit and led 22 and 21 when the half came.

Rod Ashman of Appleton plays forward for the Cards.

Dame squad it was regarded as the most perfect ever to represent the Hoosier school.

Northwestern reached its peak early. Dick Hanley had the Wildcats in perfect condition for the Nebraska and Notre Dame games, and they held their pace until University of California at Los Angeles and Ohio State had been beaten. Then the Purple went into a slump from which it never recovered. Minnesota was beaten only after a terrific uphill fight in which the Gophers' own tactical errors helped them to lose. Northwestern was quite lucky to get a one-point victory over Indiana and then was beaten by Purdue.

Putting a finger on the reasons for Northwestern's decline is difficult. Lack of line reserves was one of Dick Hanley's greatest problems and inability to find a capable understudy for George Potter at quarterback was another. Without Potter the Wildcats were rudimentary and the brilliant field general was missing in all of the Minnesota game and the major portion of the Purdue contest. Rebel Russell's line plunging also was lost to the Purple for most of the season, and when the Cherokee did return Hanley was unable to sacrifice Olson's punting for the much-needed power. Northwestern never found really capable pass receivers and its aerial game was further weakened when an injury robbed the team of Rentner's throwing skill. The Wildcats finished out the season just an ordinary team, still potentially great but badly out of gear.

Notre Dame's slump came without warning in the final period of the Southern California battle. The Irish were unable to hit their stride again and fell to an Army team that had been scheduled for a good hiding. Harry Anderson did give Notre Dame one of the best lines ever to wear the blue. Perhaps it was the best. But there was no Carideo to guide the team and the generalship often was bad. The fact that Marchie Schwartz was called on to carry the ball only 10 times against Southern California is an example of the faulty quarterbacking. Then, too, the team lacked a blocking back comparable with Marty Brill. Early and mid-season estimates of Notre Dame's strength were, it seems, due more to the weakness of the opposition than to the Irish strength. In the final sumup an taking Northwestern as it played against Purdue, Pittsburgh stands out as the only really good team defeated by Notre Dame.

Purdue finished the full season with the best record of any Big Ten team. The boilermakers won eight and lost one game, and the defeat was that accident at Wisconsin. Northwestern won seven, lost one and tied one, while Michigan finished with the same record. Of these two teams the Purple would seem to have the better record. The Wildcats were beaten by Purdue and by Notre Dame, while Michigan lost to Ohio State and drew with Michigan State. The Buckeyes later lost to Minnesota, while Michigan State was beaten several times. Northwestern also defeated Nebraska and California and had a much harder schedule than the Wolverines.

GUARDSMEN, MILKS WIN OPENING GAMES IN INDUSTRIAL LOOP

First Two Games on Schedule Played Last Night at Y. M. C. A.

PLAY in the Industrial and Commercial basketball league of the Y. M. C. A. opened last night at the association gymnasium with two games. Two more battles will be staged Saturday night as the league closes the first week of competition.

Co. D. stepped out with a victory last evening beating Coated Paper, 23 and 11. The Guards took an 11 and 4 lead in the first half on four field goals and three free throws. They managed to count 12 points in the second half while the Papers were getting five and the game ended with the count 23 and 11.

Pure Mills won the Fox River Paper team in the second game of the evening. Getting an 11 to 7 margin in the first half, the Mills went out in the second and counted eight free throws and a free throw to finish the game with the score 23 and 17.

All four teams were guilty of heavy fouling. The guards had 10, the Coated Paper five and the Pure Mills 8 and the Fox River Paper 10.

SCOTT ANSWERS CRITICS

Chicago (AP)—Critics of football decrying the game as too hazardous for college men have been referred by President Walter D. Scott of Northwestern university, to the record of the Western conference during the past four years.

"For 40 years I have been a faculty member of the Western conference," Dr. Scott said in an address yesterday. "In all that time there has not been a single fatality or an accident in 'big' serious injury to any of the thousands of young men who have played on Big Ten teams."

SIGN PRELIM BOXERS FOR MILWAUKEE CARD

Milwaukee (AP)—Johnny Saunders, Green Bay, and Jack Robinson, Milwaukee, "boxers," have been signed for a 12 and 16 preliminary card later Dec. 11, which will be headlined by a bout between Henry Fazio, New York, and Pat and Versteeghen.

Billy Mitchell announced today.

Mitchell said he was attempting to arrange a return match between Taff Littman, Cicely, and Bill Everett, Chicago, for the 16-round semi-windup. Everett won a close decision over Littman at Janesville Tuesday night.

LADY with a PAST

BY HARRIET HENRY

SYNOPSIS: Rumors of a sensational career in Paris, which Venice Muir has manufactured, win her the social success in New York which she formerly lacked. She is widely courted. But Drake Farrelly, in whom Venice is deeply interested, believes the stories and disapproves of her. She tries to change Drake's attitude.

Chapter 38
A DANGEROUS WOMAN

THE table made a colourful picture with yellow tulips in a long oval silver bowl. They looked like reflections of the lights from a score of tapers flickering in candelabra of four corners. There was no electric light in the Goobys' great dining-room and faces were brought into sharp relief by the candles.

Venice sat between Jerry and Jim Sevener. Drake was directly opposite, Betty Paine on one side. Alice Schuyler on the other. Venice lifted her eyes to meet his, then she turned quickly to Jim.

"I loved that evening with you at the movies," she said. "Marlene Dietrich is remarkable."

"I hardly deserve credit for that. And so it went. Meaningless, but Venice persisted in her animation. Whenever she glanced at Drake he was either talking to one of the girls at his side or apparently lost in thought, his gaze on the profusion of tulips.

"Like early morning light," she suddenly leaned a little forward to say to him. She must make him conscious of her accessibility.

He started and smiled quickly at her.

"Like butter in bloom," laughed Jim who had heard the remark.

It spoiled the attempt on her part and Drake turned to answer a question of Betty Paine's.

After dinner Lola, Jerry, Alice Schuyler and Drake Farrelly played cards. Venice and the others sat and chatted.

"Let's have another table," suggested Venice.

After a good bit of cutting in and out and an elapse of about two hours that seemed interminable to Venice she found herself playing opposite Drake.

"I haven't had two words with you this evening," she said.

"I know. You're elusive."

"Three spades," said Lola.

When Jim Sevener was dummy at table he came over to put a hand on the back of Venice's chair.

"May I take you home when you're ready?" he bent his head to whisper.

Venice nodded. She felt annoyed. She wanted Drake to take her home but there seemed to be little that she could do about it.

As the game broke up and people rose to go she remained in her chair and put a restraining hand on his arm.

"What about the contest?" she asked. She had forgotten her maneuvers now and was only sincerely interested.

"It's not announced."

"What endless suspense. I envy you. I wish I had something to look forward to and dream about. I thought of taking some courses at Columbia."

"I expect you'd hardly find the time. But it's a great idea."

This was said with no malice. He merely could not visualize her wedging it in between all her engagements. She could see that. She smiled eagerly.

"I could find the time, really. I'm going to."

"Can we drop you home, Venice?" It was Lola in her evening wrap.

Venice got reluctantly to her feet. She thought quickly.

"Jim's taking me home. But who don't you and Jerry and Drake come along too and we'll ransack the ice box."

"Can't, darling," Lola said.

"Sorry, Lola. What about you, Drake?"

"I know when I'm wanted. Seven will contaminate me with dirt looks all night."

"Never mind Jim, I want you."

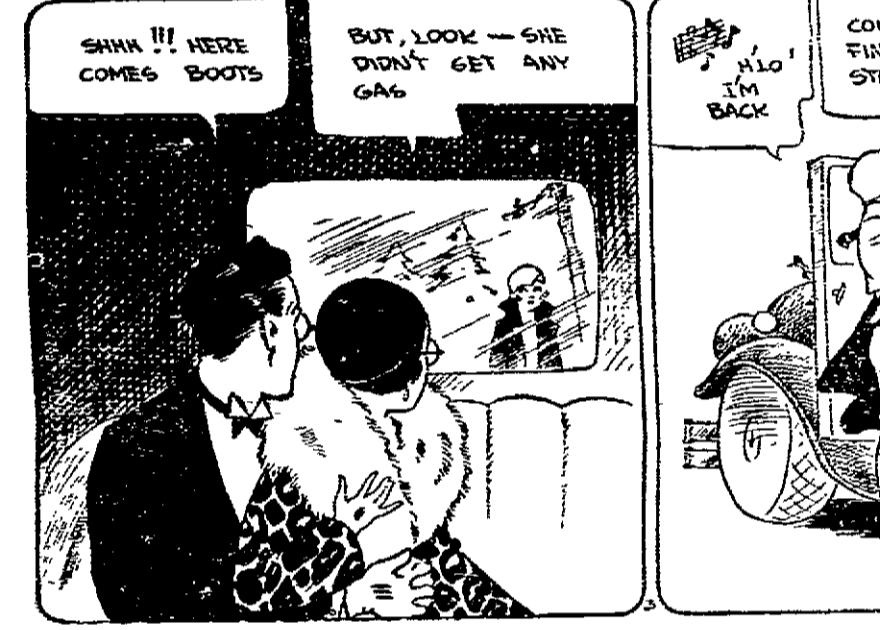

"No, thanks, Venice. There are no joys in being a fifth wheel."

"Night, Venice." Lola turned away to find Jerry.

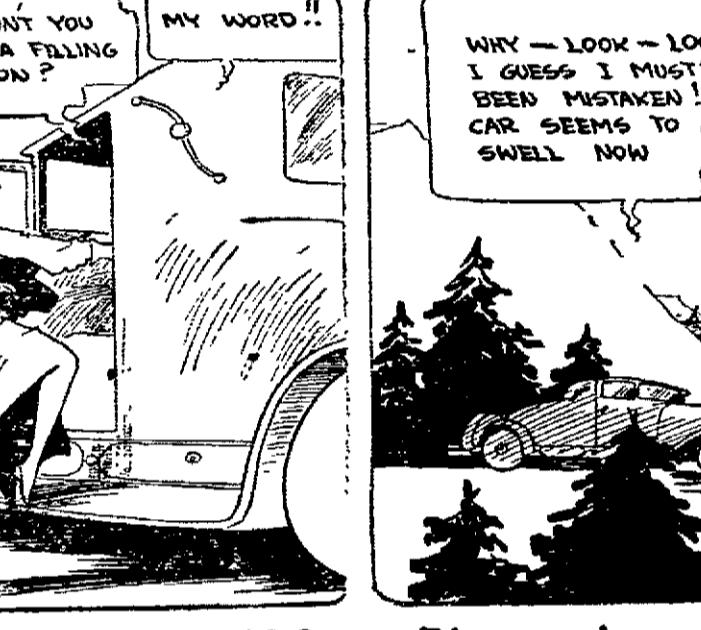

"Will you come to dinner with me on Thursday, Drake?" She felt herself colour.

"Why pick on Joe?" said a fedup fan. "Why not shoot the whole darned lot?" - Winnipeg Tribune.

POULTRY SHOW SCHEDULED FOR DECEMBER 9-13

Fox River Valley Poultry and Pet Stock Association Plans Event

The Fox River Poultry and Pet Stock association will conduct its annual poultry show from Wednesday, Dec. 9 to Sunday evening, Dec. 13, at Armory G.

According to advanced reports from the largest poultry and pet stock breeders in this part of the Fox river valley who plan to make exhibits, the show will be one of the largest in years.

Between 600 and 700 birds and rabbits are to be exhibited. Frank E. Murphy, Green Bay, one of the greatest poultry fanciers in these parts, has indicated that he will exhibit between 75 and 100 of his prize birds.

Youngsters of Outagamie-co again will be admitted to the show without charge on Friday afternoon, Dec. 11. According to the committee. Last year approximately 500 pupils were admitted without charge.

As in former years the same system of exhibiting and marking birds and rabbits will be used. The birds will be displayed in special cages arranged in rows in one section of the armory. Rabbits also will be displayed in cages in another section.

George Wells, Oshkosh, has been selected to judge poultry exhibits and Fred Witt, of Clintonville will judge rabbits. They will be assisted by members of the association.

RIPON STUDENT IS GIVEN R. O. T. C. TITLE

Ripon — (P) The highest award of the Ripon college R. O. T. C. unit—the title of cadet major—was bestowed on Runo Anderson, Minneapolis, at formal exercises held on the campus Wednesday.

Anderson was captain and full back on the championship Ripon team this year. His appointment and that of others was announced by Capt. Glen R. Townsend, senior officer in charge, and Dr. Silas Evans, president of the college.

Karl Eau Claire, received the second highest appointment as cadet captain adjutant. Kenneth Falconer, Chicago, Leigh Steinman, Racine, and Clyde Christ, Madison, were awarded captaincies of the three infantry units here. William Schaefer, Ripon was appointed cadet first lieutenant in charge of the R. O. T. C. bands.

New cadet first lieutenants are Edwin Anderson, Minneapolis. Walter Keenan and Paul Utter, both of Stoughton; Ralph Cooke and Glenn Johnson, both of Chicago, and Art Wilken, Wisconsin Rapids.

Robert Scott, Stoughton, J. Wagner, Ft. Atkinson; Gordon Bly, Brandon; John Fischer, Carlton Schwesow and Erwin Weil, all of Ripon, were appointed cadet second lieutenants and Everett Meyer, Neekoosa, Clarence Lefsky, Manitowoc, and Earl Henschutz, Eau Claire were named sergeants.

REVIVE EXPERIMENTS WITH "GRENZ-RAYS"

Madison — (P)—Although scientists abandoned experiment on the "Grenz-rays" a quarter of a century ago in the belief that they were useless, they have been revived at the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Ernest A. Pohl, professor of radiology and Dr. C. H. Bunting, professor of pathology, are seeking to use the "Grenz-rays" as a treatment for skin diseases.

The rays are in the spectrum between the shortest ultra violet rays and the longest X-ray and thus earned the name Grenz, taken from the German word meaning "Borderline."

"Having very little penetration, these rays are absorbed in the very upper layers of the skin," Dr. Pohl said, "thus lending themselves very well to the treatment of skin diseases. They were used for the first time more than 25 years ago but were given up. Scientific interest in them renewed a few years ago and through the use of modern knowledge and apparatus have been made available to radiology today."

MUSCULAR-RHEUMATIC PAINS

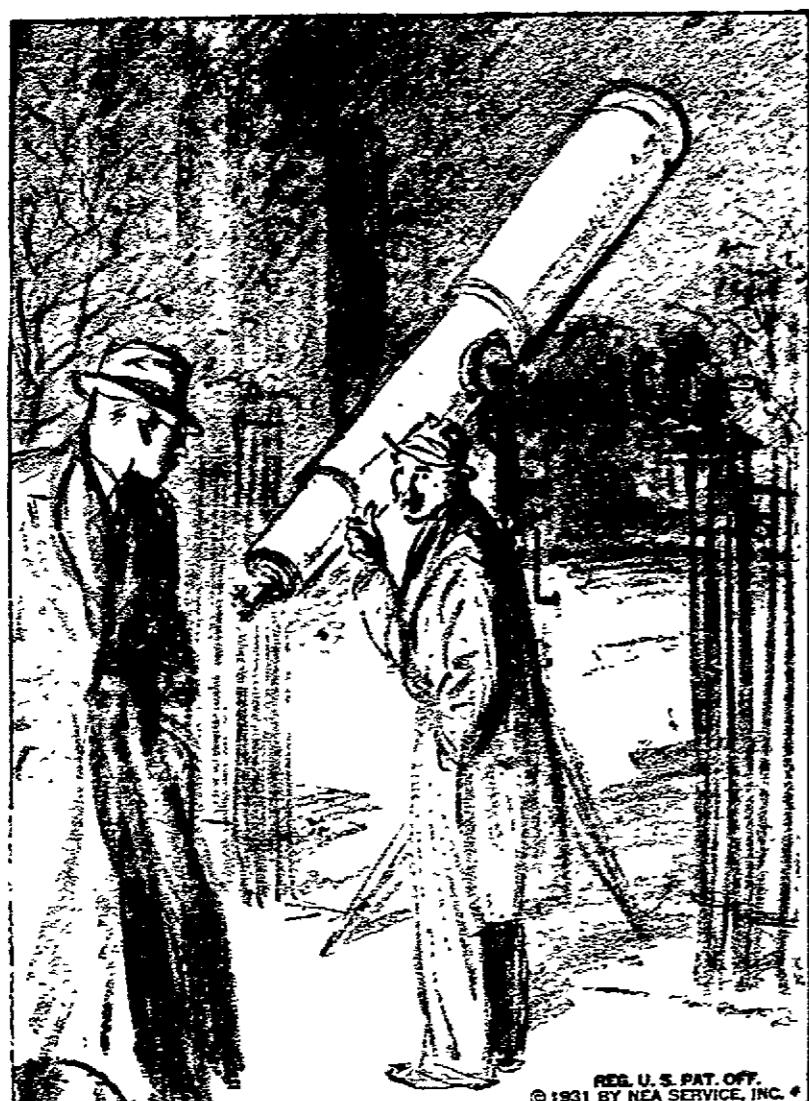

DR AW them out with a "counter-irritant." Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally respond to good old Musterole. Doctors call it a "counter-irritant" because its warming action penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. It gets action and it is not just a salve. But do not stop with one application. Apply this sothing, cooling, healing ointment generously to the affected area once every hour for five hours. Used by millions for over 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

City Hall Is Swamped By Tax Figures

City hall is swimming in figures. City officials go around mumble figures. As a matter of fact, the figure 15 per cent is the axis on which the city globe is turning these days.

Every official in city hall who has a spare moment has been enlisted in the great game of deducting 15 per cent from the assessment rolls.

This one figures, that one writes, the next one hovers over an adding machine. With all hands busy, it is hoped that the tremendous job of deduction will be completed by the end of the week. Then the no lesser game of computing the taxes begins.

A number of devices have been tried in the computations. During the board of review hearings Philip Vogt, Sixth ward alderman, facilitated matters with the use of a slide rule. When the change of books began someone suggested a circle annotated with figures so the computations would be mechanical. The one being used at present is a chart, with the multiplications worked out.
